

A Storekeeper Says:

"A lady came into my store lately and said: 'I have been using a new Perfect Oil Cook-Stove all winter in my apartment. I want one now for my summer home. I think these oil stoves are wonderful. If only women knew what a comfort they are, they would all have one. I spoke about my stove to a lot of my friends, and they were astonished. They thought that there was small and smoke from an oil stove, and that it heated a room just like any other stove. I told them of my experience, and one after another they got one, and now not one of them would give hers up for five times its cost.'"

The lady who said this had thought an oil stove was all right for quickly heating milk for a baby, or boiling a kettle of water, or to make coffee quickly in the morning, but she never dreamed of using it for difficult or heavy cooking. Now she knows.

Do you really appreciate what a New Perfect Oil Cook-Stove means to you? No more coal to carry, no more coming to the dinner table so tired out that you can't eat. Just light a Perfect Oil Cook-Stove and immediately the heat from an intense blue flame shoots up to the bottom of pot, kettle or oven. But the room isn't heated. There is no smoke, no smell, no outside heat, no drudgery in the kitchen where one of these stoves is used.

Cautionary Note: Be sure you get this stove—see that the name-plate on the front reads "New Perfect."

FAIR WOMEN PORTRAITS.
The Fair Women Show at the Grafton Gallery, in London, does not contain so many beauties as Sir Edward Tennant's private collection, which was also opened to the public on Wednesday for the first time, with first rate pictures by Hogarth, Sir Joshua Reynolds, Gainsborough, Romney, Roeburn and Hoppner, yet it is a varied and interesting blend of the winter Academy, the impressionist sale and the International Exhibition. Among the seven Sargent portraits two not previously exhibited. One is a quiet portrait of Mrs. Barcard, in white with a red background, and the other, an opulent portrait of Miss Almira Wertheimer, with a green gown, turban and feather, playing a mandolin, is a brilliant example of the painter's swaggar style. Whistler is represented by one of the first pictures which he exhibited in London, "The Lady in White," subsequently painted over and now restored. There are three brilliant Boldini's, several works of exceptional interest by Luc's Gustave Ricard, a large canvas, "La Peche" by Pavis de Chavannes, and a smaller one by Gustave Coubet. There are over two hundred works, old and new, in this comprehensive display of portraiture.

The May number of the Southern Planter contains many articles of interest for farmers and housekeepers.

John D. Rockefeller would go broke if he should spend his entire income trying to prepare a better medicine than Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy for diarrhoea, dysentery or bowel complaints. It is simply impossible, and so says every one that has used it. Sold by W. F. Creighton & Co. and Richard Gibson.

ORUSADE AGAINST UNCLEANLY LESS.
Dairy and Food Commissioner Foss, of Pennsylvania, yesterday said that he proposed to enforce to the letter the Murphy pure food act of 1909, where it provides that food for sale must not be exposed so that it may become contaminated.

"That means," says Foss, "that food cannot be exposed to flies. I have been studying this pest, and I find that medical men and merchants agree that food should be kept covered from flies. Under the law agents of the Dairy and Food Division may arrest a shopkeeper on view when they see that food is improperly stored. The part taken by the fly in spreading disease does not need to be discussed and I propose to see that Pennsylvania takes a stand in protecting foodstuffs from this dangerous pest."

Yesterday in the House was devoted to consideration of the sundry civil appropriations bill. Led by the democrats, the House carried the appropriation for the protection of the public domain, cutting in half the amount; a vote of 191 to 191 in bringing the work up to date, and prohibiting the use of any of the money to meet the existing deficiency.
